As we approach the 10th Annual Women's Health Conference, we are pleased to introduce each of the expert speakers. These presenters bring years of expertise and experience in their respective fields, and YOU get to benefit from all they know!

Meet Mary Jane Minkin, MD

A sought-after expert on menopause, you could say Dr. Minkin wrote the book on women's health. And she has! The author of several definitive works on menopause and women's sexual health, Mary Jane is also a contributor to WebMD.com, Prevention Magazine and TLC's A Conception Story. When she is not educating the public, she is shaping the future of obstetrics and gynecology as a clinical professor at Yale University School of Medicine, where she has received numerous awards for her exceptional service as a caregiver and educator. In addition, Dr. Minkin maintains an active private practice in New Haven and on the shoreline.

Mary Jane is not only brilliant, but she is funny too. She will keep you laughing as the keynote speaker for this year's health conference. Don't miss your chance to experience a lighthearted look at women's health from this renowned expert!
